NATIONAL MOOT COURT COMPETITION

PADMA SHRI
PROF. SYED AINUL
HASAN
VICE CHANCELLOR
MANUU
HYDERABAD

Foreword Message from the Vice Chancellor

It is with great pride and anticipation that I extend my greetings for the 2nd MANUU Law School National Moot Court Competition 2026, hosted by the School of Law, Maulana Azad National Urdu University, Hyderabad. The advancement of legal education is fundamental to the realisation of a just and equitable society, and events such as this moot court competition offer law students an invaluable opportunity to cultivate legal reasoning, advocacy, and research skills in an environment of spirited, yet respectful, competition.

The inaugural edition of this competition last year set a remarkable precedent, not only in terms of participation from esteemed law institutions across India but also in the demonstration of intellectual rigor and ethical values by the participants. The success of the previous event stands as a testament to the unflagging commitment of the MANUU Law School, its faculty, and the student coordinators, whose tireless efforts brought together a conclave of promising legal minds for the exchange of knowledge and the pursuit of excellence.

As we launch the second edition, I am confident that the competition will reach new heights, fostering academic collaboration, professional growth, and a culture of critical inquiry. Mooting is a powerful educational tool, shaping future legal professionals who are not only adept in legal argumentation but also rooted in the principles of justice and integrity. Such experiences develop leadership, discipline, and the ability to work collaboratively, qualities that our nation and the legal profession greatly value.

I congratulate the organising committee for their dedication, and encourage all participating teams to approach this competition with zeal, curiosity, and a sense of camaraderie. Let this event further the vision of Maulana Azad National Urdu University to nurture disciplined professionals and lifelong learners. My best wishes are with all students, mentors, expert judges, and organisers for a thoroughly enriching and memorable competition.

MOOT COURT PROPOSITION

Aurelia Dynamics Pvt. Ltd. ("Aurelia") is a Bengaluru-based artificial intelligence research company founded in 2017 which also has its sales office at Delhi for all its products range. It develops advanced autonomous reasoning systems for scientific modelling, digital design, and industrial automation. In 2025, Aurelia launched Project FALCON, aimed at creating a self-improving multimodal AI capable of converting textual prompts, engineering datasets, proprietary design inputs, and real-time environmental data into both functional technical models and artistic digital outputs. By late 2025, Aurelia published FALCON-X over multiple web platforms such as www.falconweb.com, www.falconwide.com & www.falconnews.com. FALCON-X was claimed to be a system that continuously retrains itself through an unsupervised internal module known as the "Self-Evolving Cognitive Engine" (SECE). Internal audit logs revealed that FALCON-X had begun generating fully original technical blueprints, optimisation algorithms, and aesthetic visual works without any identifiable dataset source or direct human prompting. All weblinks where Aurelia had published about FALCON-X were running on domain provided by GoMother LLC having its corporate presence at Delhi, India. Aurelia publicly declared FALCON-X "the first autonomous cognitive design system capable of independent creative authorship," sparking industrywide and regulatory debate. FALCON-X autonomously produced a high-efficiency turbine-cooling duct design for aerospace engines along with a 900-line optimization algorithm improving thermal-flow modelling by 27%. Aurelia maintained that no human drafted, supervised, or requested these creations and further audit trails showed no extraction from existing proprietary datasets. FALCON-X generated a 4K digital artwork titled "Skyfire Descent," which won first place at the Asia Digital Design Expo. Aurelia did not disclose that the artwork was generated by an AI system. It is noteworthy that apart from Marketing Notes published across Marketing Offices of Aurelia, FALCON-X was yet to be commercially launched. In April, 2025 Aurelia filed Patent Application No. 1123/DEL/2025 naming "FALCON-X (AI System)" and Dr. Ishaan Rao as joint inventors and Copyright registration for "Skyfire Descent," naming FALCON-X as co-author. In July 2025 the Controller General of Patents, Designs & Trade Marks (CGPDTM) rejected both filings, stating that only natural persons can be inventors or authors and AI systems lack legal personhood and cannot hold rights permitting as well as AI inventorship may encourage training on infringing datasets. Aurelia alleged that its Delhi-filed patent application was substantively examined by an officer posted at the Mumbai Patent Office. Internal technical reports influencing the rejection were generated in Mumbai, despite the territorial jurisdiction being Delhi and rejection orders were communicated from Chennai Patent Office servers due to a software routing error. Aurelia further argued that the rejection was issued without proper territorial and administrative jurisdiction and was therefore void. Stratos AeroDesign Ltd. (Stratos), an aerospace design company headquartered in Hyderabad, alleged that FALCON-X was trained on datasets illegally scraped from Stratos's turbine-cooling designs stored on cloud servers located in Hyderabad. Stratos alleged that its designs though do not have registered copyright protection however same have been published way back in the year 2017. Stratos alleged that FALCON-X-generated cooling-duct design substantially replicated its proprietary architecture and the economic harm occurred at its Hyderabad R&D centre yet Aurelia is marketing and disclosing the allegedly infringing AI outputs now in November, 2025. Mr. Jack Ryan, a representative of Stratos also reported that multiple unknown infringers are also replicating Stratos's proprietary architecture of its turbine-cooling designs and trying to gain commercially out of it. Aurelia is in process of assailing the order of Controller General of Patents, Designs & Trade Marks (CGPDTM) rejected both filings but chose not to do so since Stratos filed a Suit against Aurelia before the High Court of Delhi under its Commercial Division against alleged use of what it claims are derivative and infringing AI-generated works.

NOTE

1. Participants are instructed to contest the matrix in one suit and represent both sides i.e. Aurelia Dynamics Pvt. Ltd. and Stratos AeroDesign Ltd.

2. Participants are open to frame issues on Jurisdiction, maintainability of Suit, nature of appropriate relief to be sought, Injunction including interim ex-parte relief and any other relief from both the sides.
